O.D.K. Pledges Fourteen Men At Class Night Tap Ceremony

Doctor Borden, Alumni President, Honored by Activities Society

WILBUR OFFICIATES
AT ANNUAL TAPPING

Varied Activities Offered by Group Chosen at Exercises

Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary activities fraternity, tapped fourteen men in a most solemn ceremony last evening at the Class Night exercises.

Dr. Borden, president of the General Alumni Association, who has been a most prominent supporter of athletics, was among the group chosen. The other thirteen singled out by O. D. K. as the outstanding men in extra-curricular activities during the school year were: DeWitt Bennett, Forrest Burgess, Wayne Chambers, Joseph Danzansky, Samuel B. Detwiler, Jr., John Everett, John Fenlon, Gerald Free, Lester M. Gates, Donald J. Goode, William Helvestine, John Madigan and Walter Rhinehart. This award, which is an annual event, is the highest honor that any George Washington man can receive for participation in student activities.

Bill Helvestine was recently elected president of the Student Council. He is also president of Gate and Key and a member of the Interfraternity Council. His social fraternity is Acacia.

Jerry Free, who was senior manager of athletics during the past year, is also a member of the Interfraternity Council and has served a year as photographic manager of the Cherry Tree. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

President of the senior class was the outstanding achievement of Jack Goode as well as membership in the Student Council and chairman of the homecoming celebration. He is also a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

John Fenlon, star quarterback of the football team for the past three years and all-American honorable mention, is well known to everybody. He is also president of the Varsity Club and a member of Delta Tau Delta.

Wayne Chambers, another ace of the gridiron, was captain of last year's eleven, also all-American honorable mention, and a member of Acacia.

John Madigan counts among his activities besides editor-in-chief of The University Hatchet, president of Pi Delta Epsilon, assistant editorship on the Cherry Tree, and membership in Theta Delta Chi.

Les Gates, "the ideas man," is business manager of The University

Order of the Coif Hears Champ Clark

Nineteen Initiated in Ceremonies Following Dinner at Racquet Club June 5

The Honorable Bennett Champ Clark, LL. B., with distinction, 1914, United States Senator, was the speaker at the seventh annual dinner of The George Washington University Chapter of the Order of the Coif at the Racquet Club, Monday evening, June 5. Senator Clark is the son of the late Champ Clark, Speaker of the House of Representatives, and served for a period as parliamentarian of the House. Following services in the Army during the World War which earned him promotion to the rank of colonel, Senator Clark returned to Missouri and engaged in the practice of law. His recent biography of John Quincy Adams has been described by critics as "the best volume on John Quincy Adams in existence."

Senator Clark became a member of the Order of the Coif at the initiation ceremonies following the dinner. His high scholastic record earned prior to the establishment of The George Washington University chapter of the Order of the Coif qualified him for membership as a graduate of the class of 1914. The other initiates were: Stuart Knowlton Barnes, Stephen Walter Blore, Leland L. Chapman, Gordon Walford Daisley, Kady Elvove, Ralph Hammar, Paul Francis Hannah, Philip Field Herrick, John Wingfield Jackson, Robert Charles Kline, Jr., B. Max Klivitsky, Henry Dallas Lincoff, Grace Cornelia McEldowney, Gerald James Meindl, Oswald Herman Milmore, Bernard Isaac Nordlinger, Marguerite Rawalt, and George LaRue Tena.

Win "Most Outstanding" Awards

JOHN FENLON

Winner of the Delta Tau Delta Prize For Student Activities

John Fenlon received the Delta Tau Delta activities medal last night, presented to him in recognition of his outstanding services in the development of athletics at the University.

The prize is awarded annually by the Gamma Eta Chapter of Delta Tau Delta to the senior class member who has done the most constructive work in the furtherance and upbuilding of the University Student Activities.

Fenlon, star quarterback on the Colonial football team for the past three years and considered one of the best backfield men to ever play in the District of Columbia, was winner last fall of the Omicron Delta Kappa cup for the most valuable man to his team. He was president of the Varsity Club during the past year. He played guard with the basketball team for two seasons and played on the varsity baseball team this year in its initial season. He was also active in intramural sports.

$200 Weddell Prize For Essay is Won By Earl Hackworth

Writing on "Arbitration as a Factor in the Promotion of Peace Among the Nations of the World," Earl Hackworth, a student in Junior College, was awarded the Alexander Wilbourn Weddell Prize of $200 at Class Night exercises last night.

This award is made annually to the student registered for a degree who submits the best essay on some subject related to "The Promotion of Peace Among the Nations of the World." The essays were required to be at least 5,000 words in length, and to have proper documentary citations and a list of source materials used accompanying them. The judges for the contest this year were: James O. Murdock, lecturer on international law; John Donaldson, professor of political economy; and Charles E. Hill, professor of political science, chairman.

Winner of Review Contest Announced

Dorothy Ragerstaff, graduate of University of Nebraska and now candidate for her M. A. in Columbian College, won The Literary Review Essay Contest, The Hatchet learned this week.

This contest is conducted, annually, by The Literary Review, and has been previously a poetry or drama contest. The prize awarded by Paul Pearman, is a copy of the "Oxford Companion to English Literature." The contest opened early in April.

Judges were Prof. Courtland Drake Baker, Prof. Martha Gibbon, and Prof. Ernest Sewell Shepherd.

Important Senior Notice

Members of the graduating classes are warned that they MUST be at Constitution Hall, Eighteenth and C streets northwest, by 7 p. m. tonight, inasmuch as the procession must be formed at 7:30 in order that names of those present may be checked. This will insure that the proper diploma will be delivered to them on the platform.

Graduates will form in the C street lobby in the order in which their names appear on the commencement program.

Black shoes and dark hose should be worn.

EVELYN IVERSON

Who Was Awarded the Pi Beta Phi Prize for The Most Active Woman

Evelyn Iverson, chairman of the Senior Class Night committee, was awarded the Pi Beta Phi prize at the senior class exercises held in the yard last night. This prize of $20 in gold is awarded annually by the District of Columbia Alpha Chapter of Pi Beta Phi to the senior woman who has done the most constructive work in the promotion of student activities among the women of the University.

Evelyn was elected to the Senior Council by Columbian College and was made chairman of the Class Night committee. Aside from her work with the senior class, her major activity was the Board of Editors of the Cherry Tree, in which capacity she served during the past year. Previous to her appointment to the Board of Editors, Evelyn served the Cherry Tree as a member of the business staff and later with the organization staff. Her journalistic endeavors included work with The Hatchet, as reporter in 1929 and assistant office manager in 1930 and 1931.

In the field of dramatics, Evelyn showed her ability as a member of Troubadours in 1929-30 and with the Drama Appreciation Club. The latter organization elected her president in 1932.

Evelyn's other activities were extended to the W. A. A. (1930-31), the Modern Poetry Club (1929), the Y. W. C. A. (1930-31) and the League of Women Voters (1929). She was elected to Hour Glass, women's honorary activities sorority, and Gamma-Eta Zeta, women's honorary journalistic sorority—of which she was treasurer.

Danzansky, Fagelson Elected To Office in Steel Gauntlet

At a recent meeting, Steel Gauntlet, newly-formed junior class honorary activities society, held the election of its officers for the coming year. Joseph Danzansky was named president of the organization, and Bernard Fagelson, its secretary-treasurer.

700 Seniors Will Receive Diplomas At Annual Convocation Tonight; Awards Are Features of Class Night Exercises

Honorary Degree to Be Given Bishop
Freeman

CEREMONY STARTS AT 8

No Commencement Address and Hoods Feature of 112th Convocation

Seven hundred candidates will be awarded degrees and certificates at the 112th Commencement exercises of The George Washington University, which are to be held in Constitution Hall, Eighteenth and C streets northwest, at 8 o'clock tonight. The only honorary degree, that of Doctor of Civil Laws, will be conferred upon the Right Reverend James Edward Freeman, D. D., Bishop of Washington.

The candidates will form in the C street lobby in the order in which their names appear in the program. Junior certificate candidates will wear the regular academic cap and gown, while degree candidates will wear cap and gown and carry the appropriate hood in their arms.

Procession to Form
President Cloyd Heck Marvin, the trustees, deans, and directors, the provost chaplain, and the Bishop of Washington will assemble in the President-General's reception room. In the basement lounge the members of the faculty will align themselves according to academic seniority.

Promptly at 8 o'clock Mr. John Russell Mason, organizer, will begin playing "Processional March." The procession, led by the marshal of the University, Dr. Elmer Louis Kayser, will enter the hall; the president, trustees, deans, directors, provost, chaplain and the Bishop of Washington will be seated on the platform. Immediately in front of the platform, the faculty will be seated to the right and the candidates to the left.

Provost to Announce Exercises
The Provost of the University, William Allen Wilbur, will announce the order of the exercises. The invocation will be pronounced by the Reverend Joseph Sizoo, D. D., minister of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Degrees in course will be conferred and Junior College certificates awarded by President Marvin in the following order: Junior College, Columbian College, School of Medicine, Law School, School of Engineering, School of Pharmacy, School of Education, School of Government, Division of Library Science, Division of Fine Arts, and the Graduate Council.

Junior College candidates will come to the platform wearing tassels on the right side of their caps, and will receive their diplomas from the president.

Freeman Delivers Graduate Sermon

Baccalaureate Services Held in Washington Cathedral;
Capacity Audience

The Right Rev. Dr. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, delivered the Baccalaureate sermon to 700 graduates of the University, and their friends and relatives, in the Washington Cathedral on Mount St. Albans last Sunday night.

Dr. Freeman stressed the work that the graduates have facing them. His text was taken from the seventh chapter of the Apostles. "You have inherited a fine set of traditions from the older generation, a set of traditions of which you should be proud, and from which heritage you can better face your work," Bishop Freeman said. Dr. Freeman emphasized the point that regardless of any influences which may tend to degrade religion, we should always remember that after all it is faith in God and belief in upright behavior that will bring us out of this world crisis.

Service Opens With Procession
The Baccalaureate service was opened with the procession. The president of the University, trustees, and members of the faculty formed in procession in the north crypt of the Cathedral; the graduates formed in the south crypt. The procession proper was very impressive. It consisted of the Cathedral boys' choir (Mr. Edgar Priest, choir master); the Cathedral clergy, the Bishop of Washington, and the academic portion.

President Marvin sat in the Sanctuary, the trustees, in the stalls; the members of the faculty, in the south section; and the students in the north section of the chapel.

The program opened by processional hymns, followed by sentences from Scriptures and Psalm 15, "French Chant." The president read the lesson: Ephesians, chapter 6, verses 10-20. This was followed by hymn 493, creed, and hymn 428. Dr. Freeman's excellent sermon followed.

The anthem, by Arthur S. Sullivan, prayer and benediction, and recessional hymns, closed the Baccalaureate service.

It is interesting to note the history of the Cathedral in which the services were held. Buried there are many of the Nation's notables, including President Woodrow Wilson and Admiral George Dewey, hero of Manila Bay. The Cathedral, not yet completed, was the dream and project of the late Bishop Satterlee, under whom the Cathedral had its beginning in the latter half of the past century.

Cathedral Being Completed
Work was carried further by his successor, the late Bishop Alfred Harding, and is being brought to its present advanced state by the Right Rev. Dr. Freeman.

The style of the Cathedral is of pure gothic architecture and it will probably be one of the largest church structures in the United States.

1,500 Hear Snyder Deliver Valedictory At Class Night

O. D. K. HONORS BORDEN

Danzansky Receives Senior Mantle From Goode for Juniors

Crowded into every available space in the yard, an assemblage of undergraduates, friends, and relatives of the outgoing senior class witnessed the class of '33's last meeting as seniors, when the Class Night exercises were held there last night.

Marshall Kayser, President Marvin, Provost Wilbur, the Deans, and the Senior Council led the academic procession which filed out of Corcoran Hall to open the exercises. The seniors, in caps and gowns, lent added dignity to the occasion.

The program was opened with the salutatory address made by Pauline Grossman, who attained the highest grades in Columbian College. Steele McGrew, president of Omicron Delta Kappa, honorary activities fraternity, led the O. D. K. tap ceremony in which fourteen men were pledged.

Dr. Daniel Le Ray Borden, president of the General Alumni Association and member of the Medical School faculty, was made an honorary member.

James Snyder, of the Medical School delivered the valedictory address. The University Men's Glee Club offered a selection of songs.

President Marvin then made the awards, approximately 50 in number. Arousing most interest, perhaps, was the awarding of the Delta Tau Delta and Pi Beta Phi awards for the most outstanding man and woman of the senior class. The Delta Tau Delta award was made to John Fenlon and the Pi Beta Phi prize of a $20 gold piece was made to Evelyn Iverson.

Next came the traditional presentation of the Senior Class mantle to the Junior Class. Jack Goode, as president of the senior class, made the presentation to Joseph Danzansky, junior president.

The presentation of the mantle closed the class exercises and was the signal

Graduation Presents Interesting Sidelights

Innovations Include Hoods for All Degrees, Omission of Speaker

Some interesting sidelights on the Commencement exercises which are to be held tonight were disclosed in an interview with Dr. Elmer Louis Kayser, marshal of the University. Dr. Kayser called attention to the fact that this is the first time in the history of the University that George Washington graduates have used hoods for all degrees. And that brings up some interesting facts about the hoods.

All hoods have velvet trimmings, but the cut, hue, and manner of wearing them have a traditional significance throughout the United States. The velvet trimming of the hood indicates the department in which the degree is taken; thus, Arts and Letters has white velvet; Law, purple; Philosophy, blue; Science, gold; Fine Arts, brown; Medicine, green; Pharmacy, olive; Library Science, lemon; and Education, light blue velvet.

The cut of the hood further shows whether the candidate aspires to a Bachelor, Master, or Doctor of Philosophy degree. The Bachelor's hood is simple in cut and about four feet in length; the Masters is of similar cut, but a foot longer; while the Doctor's hood has side panels.

Gowns, too, differ according to rank. A Bachelor's gown is of woolen material with long pointed sleeves. The Masters, on the other hand, are more aristocratic and wear silk gowns with a long closed sleeve, square at the end, with the arm coming through a slit at the elbow. The Doctor's gown, too, is of silk, but it has round and open sleeves, faced with velvet and with three bars of velvet on them. So now when you see the graduates file in the hall tonight, you'll know all about their raiment.

Commencement Addresses Omitted
Another interesting sidelight brought out by Dr. Kayser, who has handled the entire Commencement arrange-

WASHINGTON, D. C., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 7, 1933

CHANGE THE TIME OF SENIOR EXAMINATIONS—GIVE PEACE

Until yesterday many seniors were in doubt as to whether they would graduate this evening or not. The Hatchet was informed yesterday that an accurate list of graduates could not be released until 5 p. m. yesterday.

The system of examinations now in use at George Washington—a system in which candidates for graduation do not know until two days before commencement and a day after the baccalaureate if they are to be graduated—is unsatisfactory. Seniors find themselves in a most uncertain and embarrassing position over which they have no control because grades are not forthcoming. Invitations to the exercises at Constitution Hall which have been available to graduates for several weeks, were in most cases not called for until the latter part of last week or the first of this week.

Even the most brilliant student hesitates to send invitations to friends and relatives before he is in possession of the final grade slip from the registrar's office. The doubtful student is subjected to an unnecessary strain that takes all the joy out of the Senior Week program and causes him to wish there was no commencement. Sending the invitations on the chance that everything will turn out all right may cause out-of-town parents and relatives to come to Washington, scan the academic procession and find their young hopeful missing. Delaying the invitations until final grades are out, makes it impossible for many interested out-of-town friends to attend.

Then, too, the recipient of a late invitation believes that it was delayed because John or Mary was such a poor student that he or she wasn't certain of graduating until two days beforehand. In most cases such an accusation is entirely unfair and further proves that a system that allows such an idea to grow is unsatisfactory.

That the trouble is not with the registrar's office is common knowledge. Working with a large staff of extra help from early morning until midnight, an average of four marks must be entered on each of some six thousand or more record cards and then preparing a list of seniors and computing the winners of a long list of commencement awards satisfies the layman that the fault is not there. Whether there is any dissatisfaction with the system in the mind of the registrar we do not know, but surely he and his staff would benefit by the elimination of this frantic rush as much as the prospective graduate.

Are the professors delinquent in correcting their papers and turning in their grades to the registrar? This, too, hardly seems possible since in many cases two hundred examination papers are graded, semester averages figured and final grades submitted within twenty-four hours after the examination is over.

The trouble lies in the fact that the examinations for seniors are given too late in the semester and too close to commencement. In many colleges and universities senior examinations are given previous to the regular examination period and the results are very satisfactory. At others, commencement is delayed a few days after the regular examination period. Perhaps neither of these systems are adaptable at George Washington. We are not qualified to suggest the solution.

But the convenience of out-of-town friends and alumni is important and everything possible to preserve the proper spirit at commencement should be done. Such spirit is exactly what George Washington needs and toward which every effort has been made in the homecoming celebration, President Marvin's Alumni tour, and the proposed alumni magazine. This is not a plea for the type of campus spirit that so many would have at George Washington, nor for anything that will lower the dignity of the University, but in this reform the University has an opportunity to create that intangible something that makes alumni have a regard for their alma mater—one of the things, probably the most outstanding, in which George Washington is inferior to the other great universities of this country.

JUST BETWEEN US

By LUDWIG CAMINITA

AS THE CANDIDATES FILE OUT of Constitution Hall, no longer seniors but members of the Alumni body, my best wishes go with them. It is they who will represent George Washington University to the outside world and their success, in a measure, will reflect to the credit of the University.

To the graduates I say: Don't forget your Alma Mater; speak a good word for it as you go along; remember that you are a product of the "new" George Washington; and, above all, if you can ever lend a helping hand—one that will further the educational facilities of the University—remember that G.W. is fast becoming "the country's best," and assistance is always welcome.

AND FOR THOSE STUDENTS who develop a pessimistic outlook on the value of college, and feel that they are too old to start real work when they graduate, may I submit to them the career of the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington.

Dr. Freeman began his career as a railway clerk and advanced to positions of responsibility before he was thirty. At that age, he was advised to join the clergy. He followed the advice given him and relinquished his important position to study theology. Today, he has attained an eminent place in the world.

To me, Bishop Freeman's career is a striking example of the maxim: It is never too late to begin. Coupled with a college education, and that maturity which one should have at the end of his college days, I see no room for pessimism.

If you are willing to take advantage of your education, and willing to work, as Dr. Freeman did, you aren't too old and it's never too late.

AND WITH THIS THE LAST ISSUE of The Hatchet, perhaps my last issue here, I would like to give my recommendations, if I may, for next year.

Among other things, I would like to see the Philosophy Club gain more recognition on campus. An organization of this type is of unquestionable value, it seems to me. Then, there is the Symphony Club, a group of students interested in music, attending concerts together, and in general enjoying the more serious type of music. The organization deserves student support and interest. With the opportunities offered to music lovers in the Capital, there is no reason why the Symphony Club should not become one of the more important groups here.

Though I may be speaking without authority on the organization, I sincerely hope the Modern Poetry Club will try to arrange its hours of meeting so that night students will be permitted to enjoy its benefits also. Perhaps there are valid reasons why the group meets only at noon. If there are, I suggest that a poetry club be formed for night students, too. There are not a few students who are interested in this phase of literature, and they should have the opportunity of meeting with others poetically inclined.

AND THEN THERE IS MY PET, the Cue and Curtain Club. I was quite chagrined when I saw the conspicuous lack of interest shown in the last production of the group. Certainly Cock Robin was well received. Many complaints have been heard about the price of admission and perhaps this may have been a cause for student absence. If so, it can no doubt be adjusted.

But, I do feel that Miss Constance Conner Brown and her group have something definite to offer to the student body, and with proper student cooperation, we may even get that University Theatre Miss Brown dreams about. Well, why not?

CERTAINLY AMONG THE STRONGEST of my recommendations would be the continuance of the "dinner meetings" between students and faculty members such as was started three weeks ago by Lester Gates. It is my firm conviction that such chats would benefit both the undergraduate and the teacher. I, for one, can better appreciate the professor's viewpoint, because of the "get-together" we had with Professor Baker. And I am sure that Professor Baker, in turn, feels that he understands the students' problems a little better since he had a friendly conversation with us.

AND WHILE WE ARE DISCUSSING student, faculty, relations, I might pause here to commend Mr. Garrett's weekly teas. I have heard a great deal about them from his students. It seems that, like the dinner-chats, the "tea" breaks the ice, if you please, and leads to pleasant discussions that broaden one's outlook. I hope these will continue next year, for I feel they are just as important as any organization that meets formally.

AND NOW, AU REVOIR, as Dick Rollo used to say. I have tried to do my best in this column. Always, my first thought was to express an honest opinion with the intention of creating some interest in subjects of, shall we say, a more serious nature. If I have succeeded, it was because of your kindness in reading the column and thinking over what was said. If I failed, I probably expressed myself poorly. At any rate, it was done with the best of intention, and at least the idea is good, even if the column isn't. The best of happiness to you in your vacations, and I hope I'll see you next year ready for some real work—both academic and extra curricular.

Dr. Bartsch Heads Malacological Union

Professor of Zoology Delivers Address on Mollusks at Meeting in Boston

Dr. Paul Bartsch, professor of Zoology, recently returned from his trip to Boston, where he presided at the meeting of the American Malacological Union, held there May 25, 26, and 27. Scientists from all over the United States attended this important meeting which is held yearly to discuss various phases of recent work done on mollusks.

The meeting was opened by Dr. Bartsch's presidential address, which dealt with his twenty-two years of study on cerion breeding, conducted off the Florida Keys. In this contribution to genetics and evolution, Dr. Bartsch presented some of his theories on breeding, conclusions derived after many years of research.

The recent Smithsonian-Johnson expedition to the Carribeans, headed by Dr. Bartsch, received much favorable comment.

In keeping with the rule that a president can serve the Union for only one term, Dr. Bartsch retired his position at this meeting. He was then appointed to serve on the executive committee.

Marvin, Buchanan Donate to Library

Marvin Presents Volumes Covering Wide Range of Historical Subjects

Donations of seventeen books on historical subjects by Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin, and the presentation of an economic history by Professor Buchanan, have been made to the library, as well as three Pennsylvania theses.

Books presented by Dr. Marvin are the following: "History of the George Washington Bicentennial Celebration: Literature Series, 1922;" "Is Germany Finished?" by Pierre Viemont; "American City Government," by Austin F. MacDonald; "The Way Out of the Depression," by H. F. Arendt; "In Our Second Century," by J. A. Hart; "Manhattan," "The Political Status of Bessarabia," by Andrei Popovici; "The American Race Problem," by Edward Byron Reuter; "Presidency vs. Hoover," by Samuel Crowthers; "National Cyclopaedia of American Biography," volume 1-20; "Memorial Volume of Virginia History Portraits," edited by Alexander W. Weddell; "Rumania's New Economic Policy," by Virgil Madgearu; "The Pragmatic Revolt in Politics," by W. J. Elliott; "Other Side of the Government," by David Lawrence; "Famous American Statesmen," by Sarah K. Bolton; "America and the New Era," by Elisha M. Friedman, and "Philippine Uncertainty," by Harry B. Hawes.

"Facts and Factors in Economic History," which Daniel Houston Buchanan presented to the library, contains articles by former students of Edwin Francis Gay, and includes the name of Professor Buchanan.

The three theses from the University of Pennsylvania are the following: "Idea of Union in American Verse (1776-86)," by Dorothy Leeds Werner; "Sir Samuel Ferguson, Poet and Anti-quarian," by Arthur Deering; and "A. E. Coppard, His Life and Poetry," by George Brandon Saul.

Hatchet, member of the homecoming committee, Pi Delta Epsilon, and a member of Phi Sigma Kappa.

Editorship of the Student Handbook for the past two years and associate editor of The University Hatchet are the achievements of Walter Rhinehart, who is also a member of Pi Delta Epsilon and Sigma Chi.

Three major leads in Troubadours are the campus' most outstanding comedian is the boast of Joe Danzansky, who is also president of the junior class, manager of the baseball team, and a member of Phi Alpha fraternity.

Anyone who has seen the Colonial courtmen cannot forget Forest Burgess, who has been for the past three years varsity basketball high scorer of the District of Columbia. He is also a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Johnny Everett, in addition to associate editor of the Cherry Tree and manager of the basketball team, was chairman of Dean Wilbur Field Day. He is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa.

Three years on the crack varsity debate team and two years at varsity tennis is DeWitt Bennett's chief claim to fame. He is also president of Delta Sigma Rho and a member of Phi Sigma Kappa.

Sam Detwiler stands among the activity leaders as associate editor of The University Hatchet, production director of Troubadours and four-year man in the Glee Club. He is a member of Pi Delta Epsilon and Alpha Chi Sigma.

Two Issues of The Hatchet To Be Printed This Summer

The Hatchet will be issued twice during the next summer session, according to Henry Herzog, graduate manager of publications. The first summer issue of The Hatchet will appear on July 8. Copies will be mailed to students at their summer residence, it was stated.

A Message

From the Alumni to the Graduates

By MARCELLE LE MENAGER
Secretary of the General Alumni Association.

Members of the graduating class are urged by the alumni officers to maintain a close and lasting association with their alma mater, individually and through the alumni organizations.

The George Washington University alumni organizations are the channels which give direction and expression to that continuing interest in the University and its affairs which should be a part of the heritage of every graduate.

Regional clubs in cities throughout the country keep alive the spirit of the University among alumni who are remote. Graduates who are leaving Washington to take up their work elsewhere should make contact with the George Washington University Alumni Club in the city where they locate, or, if no alumni club exists, they may be instrumental in forming one.

Professional groups—law, medicine, education—foster friendship, cooperation and progress among graduates whose life work is in the same field.

The General Alumni Association coordinates these various forces and promotes alumni objectives which are common to the University as a whole and to its entire alumni body.

Graduation from the University makes each graduate a member of the General Alumni Association; life work allocates him to a professional group; place of residence is the basis for membership in a regional club. These are three fields of alumni interest and activity in which every graduate should take a part.

For the convenience of members of the graduating class who are leaving Washington, there is printed below a list of officers:

Baltimore—President, Judge Harvey Cleveland, LL.B. 1914; 110 East Lexington street.

Graduation Festivities, Numerous Post-Exam Dances Attract Students

Elections, Initiations, Pledgings Held as Year Comes to Close

With commencement, class night, and the numerous other events that go to make up graduation week, the seniors and their friends are in the midst of a gay social whirl. Fraternity and sorority dances and parties compete to provide a final gay conclusion to the year's social activities.

Dean and Mrs. William Van Vleck gave a reception in honor of the Law Class of 1933 at their home Sunday, June 4. Jack Goode, president of the Senior Law Class, assisted in receiving the graduates.

Honoring Miss Ruth Aubeck, faculty advisor to Orchestras, a breakfast was held Sunday morning, June 4, at the Iron Gate Inn. Members of the club presented Miss Aubeck with a silver piece in appreciation of the splendid assistance given the club in their dance productions. A gift was also presented to Bettie Eifelt, the retiring president of the club.

After its meeting Thursday, May 11, the International Relations Club elected the following officers: Richard L. Berner, president; Lolita Toothaker, vice president; Naomi Myers, secretary. Benjamin Book, the retiring president.

is the president of the Mid-Atlantic Conference for International Relations Clubs which will meet in Washington in December.

The Men's and Women's Glee Clubs held a picnic at Kitty Boeh's cottage at South River Park, Saturday, June 3. Swimming, boating, and a picnic supper entertained the members and their guests.

Acacia entertained at dinner Sunday, June 4, Marjorie Delamater, Mr. and Mrs. Delamater, Bertha Beers, and Eleanor Goodson.

Organizations Elect Officers

Sigma Nu announces the election of the following as its officers for the coming year: Philip Waller, commander; Hall Fleming, lieutenant; Rex K. Nelson, treasurer; Raymond Antignat, recorder; Clyde W. Smith, reporter; Morse Allen, chaplain; Frank Stone, social chairman, and Edward C. Crouch, Interfraternity Council delegate.

Chi Sigma Gamma, honorary chemical sorority, elected the following as officers at its meeting May 22: Mary Alice Phillips, president; Sally Harrison, vice president; Maud Young, secretary; Louise Stull, sergeant-at-arms.

Chi Sigma Gamma announces the pledging of Anna Bradshaw, Louise Stull, and Katherine Tranbarger before their Annual Founders' Day Banquet, April 29.

Alpha Pi Epsilon, honorary Home Economics Fraternity, announces the initiation on May 12 of Dorothy M. Smith, Myrtle Mohagen, Catherine Baron, and Evelyn Lambert.

Acacia announces the formal pledging of Andrew Freeman.

Social Organizations Hold Final Dances

Pi Beta Phi held its closed dance in honor of the seniors at Indian Spring Country Club Friday, June 2, with music furnished by Jerry Free and his orchestra.

Alpha Delta Pi held its spring formal at the Officers Club of the Army War College, Friday, June 2. Rhythm was furnished by LeGrande's Orchestra.

Theta Delta Chi held its final dance

Wins Award

Amanda Chittum Honored By Hour Glass as Outstanding Sophomore

Presented for the first time this year, the silver loving cup awarded by Hour Glass Honor Society, women's honorary activities society, to the outstanding sophomore woman, went to Amanda Chittum.

Exceptional achievements in dramatics and publications have been attained by Miss Chittum in the two years she has been in the University.

In her freshman year she had the feminine leads in "The Queen's Husband" and "The Contrast," produced by Cue and Curtin. In recognition of this work, she was elected to Sigma Delta Phi, honorary speech arts fraternity for women. She served as secretary this year. She is a member of Cue and Curtin Club, and was vice president for 1932-33. "Cook Robin," the Cue and Curtin production last fall, had Amanda for the lead also.

Miss Chittum has been a member of the Cherry Tree staff for two years in the features department.

In addition, she was elected secretary of the sophomore class. Her social sorority is Kappa Kappa Gamma.

This award, which will be made annually, is given on the basis of participation in activities and evidence of outstanding achievements.

Pi Delta Set Spring Initiation Date

The spring initiation of the local chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon, national collegiate journalistic fraternity, will be held on Tuesday, June 20. It was decided at a short meeting of the organization last Monday afternoon.

at the chapter house Friday, June 2, to the tune of Knapp-Davis' Orchestra.

Saturday night, June 3, was the occasion for gaiety in many of the local fraternity houses. The Sigma Nu's were seen dancing to the strains of "Boots" and his Polo Boys; at the Kappa Alpha House, Gibbs' Joymakers were furnishing the members and their guests lively music; Sigma Phi Epsilon held its final dance at the chapter house, with Rodney Hart's Vikings performing; Howard Texter's Orchestra provided the music for Sigma Alpha Epsilon's final dance, held at the chapter house.

Chi Omega gave its spring formal at Kenwood Golf and Country Club Monday night, June 5.

Kappa Delta honored its senior members with a dance at the chapter house Monday night, June 5. Craig Morris' Orchestra supplied the dance tunes.

Persons

Mildred Cooper, Edith Grosnevor, Dolly Tschiffely, Marian Boyle, Burgess Roberts, Catherine Kramer, and Anna-Claire Koons spent the week end at Rehobeth Beach.

Mary Lee Watkins, Elizabeth Orth, and Kitty Phelps are planning to attend Zeta Tau Alpha's Convention at Excelsior Springs, Mo., the third week in August.

Annabelle McCullough and Margaret Liebler will attend the installation of a Kappa Delta chapter at Brooklyn College, New York, June 9-11.

Helena Cook entertained members of Sigma Kappa at her place at South River, Sunday, June 4.

Anne Lou Harrison and June Wood are spending the summer in Charlottesville, Va., where they will attend the summer session of the University of Virginia.

Dorothy Porterfield will represent the G. W. chapter of Kappa Delta at its convention at Bemidji, Minn., June 26-July 1.

Mary Spelman will entertain at supper for the actives and pledges of Alpha Delta Pi at her home in Falls Church, June 12.

Muriel Davis left Sunday for Burlington, Vt., where she will spend the summer.

Olivia Nixon is giving a luncheon for members of Chi Omega at her summer home at South River on June 8.

The Washington Alumnae Chapter of Kappa Delta entertained at tea Friday, June 2, in honor of the graduating members of the sorority.

Grace Haley Awarded W. A. A. Senior Cup at Annual Banquet

At the final banquet of the Women's Athletic Association Grace Haley was awarded the senior cup, the highest award in women's sports. The presentation, which is based on leadership, executive ability, and outstanding skill in sports, was made by Gretchen Felker, president of the W. A. A., who acted as toastmistress for the affair.

Dr. Robert Howe Harmon was the guest speaker of the evening and talked briefly on "Cooperation." Other guests were Mrs. Joshua Evans, Dr. and Mrs. Alva Curtis Wilgus, and members of the staff of the Physical Education Department for Women. Entertainment was furnished by a quartet from the Men's Glee Club.

Honorary blazers awarded annually to the outstanding upperclasswomen in sports went to Louise Cox, Mary Lee Watkins, and Grace Haley.

Honore Noyes received the archery cup for high point scorers, while Virginia Pope was awarded the golf cup by virtue of winning the spring and fall tournaments. Alice Kennedy was presented the riding cup and Bettie Eifelt the swimming cup for individual high point scoring in the interclass swimming meet.

The Intramural cup and plaque were presented by Mrs. Evans to Alpha Delta Pi, whose intramural teams accrued the largest number of points in the various tournaments during the past season.

The junior class received the interclass swimming cup by virtue of carrying off first honors in the interclass meet. The sophomore class claimed the President's cup awarded annually to the class accumulating the most points from results of interclass tournaments.

Manager's letters went to Helen Buntun, archery; Inez Ingham, baseball; Nancy Booth, swimming; Mary Louise Braselton, tennis; Virginia Dillman, golf; Florence Hedges, hockey; Gretchen Felker, soccer; Catherine Crane, basketball; Helen Mitchell, volleyball, and Harriet Atwell, intramurals. These awards are based not only on success in managing the sport, but also on general work in the Association.

Letters, Numerals Given by W.A.A.

Managers Announce Names of Emblem Winners in Each Sport

Letter awards and numerals given out at the Women's Athletic Association last week formally closed the 1932-33 season. Brief resumes of the various sports were given at that time by the managers of each.

Inez Ingham announced that the sophomore team had won the interclass baseball tournament, and Frances Thompson, Virginia Pope, Reba Barton, Mary Haley, Isabel Elms, Marian Erwin, Florence Grady, Mary Terrell, Virginia Dennis, and Gretchen Felker composing that team were awarded numerals. The honorary varsity in baseball was composed of Frances Thompson, Reba Barton, Alicia Mooney, Gretchen Felker, Grace Haley, receiving major letters, and of Mary Haley, Virginia Pope, Helen Chafes, and Florence Grady receiving minor letters.

In tennis Mary Louise Braselton announced that the sophomores had again carried away first honors in the interclass competition. Numerals went to Gretchen Felker, Frances Douglass, Reba Barton, Frances Thompson, Jane Caskey, and Rosemary Lovejoy. Major letters were won by Gretchen Felker, Mary Louise Braselton, Katherine Wassmann, and Martha Myers, while minor letters were received by Virginia Dillman, Reba Barton, Marjorie Sehorn, and Helen Chafes.

The junior team, according to Nancy Booth, manager, won the interclass swimming meet. Numerals were given to Catherine Crane, Virginia Dillman, Janet Young, Mary Lee Watkins, and Inez Ingham. The honorary varsity was composed of Bettie Eifelt, Catherine Crane, Virginia Dillman, Janet Young, Lorraine Craig receiving major letters, and Caroline MacMillan, Lee Harvin, Mary Ireland, and Inez Ingham receiving minor letters.

Helen Buntun announced Honore Noyes as the winner of the individual tournament in archery. The three high point scorers in this contest, Helen Waters, Honore Noyes, and Helen Buntun, received minor letters, the highest award in this sport.

In rifle, Marguerite Thomas announced that the sophomores had won another victory in the inter-class tournament. That team, composed of Frances Thompson, Marian Erwin, Lorraine Lincoln, Doris Ervin, Judith Birge, and Selma Fesler, also received numerals. On the honorary varsity, major letters went to Evelyn Kerr, Lois Cores, Virginia Dillman, Josephine Raynor, and Naomi Myers. Minor awards went to Dorothy Catling, Lorraine Lincoln, Marguerite Thomas, and Mary Louise Yauch.

EXERCISES PRESENT INTERESTING NOTES ON BATON, HOODS

ments, was that this is the first time the Commencement ceremony has omitted the usual Commencement speech. This, in order to emphasize more the pageantry of the occasion.

And when you see Marshall Kayser lead the procession, holding that beautiful baton, you may enjoy the sight more if you know that it is made of walnut taken from the White House at the time it was remodeled by President Theodore Roosevelt.

If you've an eye for that sort of thing, it might be fun to compare the first Commencement with the present 112th. Back in December, 1824, Alexander Ewell, Albert Fairfax, and James D. Knowles presented themselves for the bachelor's degree. Such famous names as Monroe, John Quincy Adams, Calhoun, Clay, and Lafayette, were there in person to see the three graduates of Columbian College. Tonight, 700 graduates will present themselves for degrees and certificates. A marked contrast indeed between the old days and the new. Rather, we might say the newer George Washington, for since the arrival of President Marlin there have been so many things that were done "for the first time in the history of the University" that it seems almost unbelievable.

Take this commencement alone, as an example. For the first time in the history of the University, there is awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Civil Law; hoods are worn for all degrees; there is no commencement speaker.

Four Generations Graduate Here

Following in the footsteps of her great grandfather, Samuel Jordan Wheeler, of North Carolina, who received the M. D. degree from The George Washington University in 1832, and upon whom the University conferred the honorary degree of Master of Arts in 1845, Ida Battle Horne, just a century later, will be graduated from this University tonight, with the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

Ida traces her descent from Dr. Wheeler on her mother's side. After receiving his degree in medicine, Dr. Samuel Jordan Wheeler became a leading physician in North Carolina, and was also an active campaigner for the higher education both of men and women. He was a founder of Chowan College for Girls, in Murfreesboro.

His son, Ida's grandfather, also was graduated from this University. Dr. Wheeler's brother, John Hill Wheeler, was an alumnus of George Washington, taking his A. B. in 1826 and A. M. in 1835. He was prominent in both state and national affairs, serving as Minister to Nicaragua from 1854 to 1857.

Fraternity Hears A.F.L. Secretary

The Hon. Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, was the principal speaker at induction dinner of Pi Gamma Mu, national social science fraternity, held at Brookings Institute, Saturday, June 3. Nineteen George Washington students were honored with membership at this time.

Mr. Morrison, who has devoted a lifetime to the understanding of the problems of labor, spoke on "Thirty Hour Week Legislation," pointing out that of 120 million workers, 13 million are unemployed. Many of these are University graduates, said Mr. Morrison, who find it as difficult to locate jobs as the laborers do.

Dr. George Norton Churchill, representing the faculty of social sciences, emphasized the importance of correlating the social sciences. "No one field can be complete without some knowledge of what there is in the others," said Dr. Churchill.

Nineteen New Members

Those students whose outstanding scholarship in the social sciences studies entitled them to recognition are: Olive Barnhart, Charles LaFarge, Eleanor E. Appich, Charles Berto, Jerome Hubbard, Paul Burnham, Leland Norton, Victor Simmons, Frank Whitehouse, Gladys West, John Zeller, Clinton D. Vernon, Louise McCracken, Quentin Watson, Royal A. Gunnison, Elizabeth Churchill, H. Kenneth Smoot, Ralph Ramsey, George Danforth.

House Party Held By Gate and Key

Gate and Key is having its annual house party at Piney Point, Md., Saturday and Sunday, June 10 and 11. Piney Point is a popular summer resort for Washingtonians, and has been the scene of former Gate and Key week ends.

Fraternity members are invited to join the members of Gate and Key for the week-end. Al Johnstone, Sigma Chi, is in charge of the arrangements for the affair.

Publication Staffs To Give Banquet

Publications of the University will hold a joint dinner-dance Thursday evening, June 8, at 7 p. m., at the Powhattan Hotel. Honorary keys will be awarded members of The Hatchet staff.

This year's and next year's editors of The Hatchet and The Cherry Tree, as well as both editorial boards of the two publications will be guests, as will be the senior staff of The Hatchet.

Others connected with the staffs of any of the publications may obtain tickets from Evelyn Eller by applying in advance to her office on the first floor of the publications building. The price is $1.50 per person.

Graduates Guests At Marvin's Tea

Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin and Mrs. Marvin entertained the members of the graduating class at tea, given at the Washington Club Monday afternoon, June 5, from 4 to 7 p. m.

Mrs. Marvin was assisted by the wives of some of the trustees, and by the wives of the administrative officers. These included: Mrs. Clarence Aikin Aspinwall, Mrs. Joshua Evans Jr., Mrs. Charles Riborg Mann, Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor, Mrs. Alfred Henry Lawson, Mrs. Robert Vedder Fleming, Mrs. Charles Carrol Clover, Mrs. Stephen Elliott Kramer, Mrs. Alfred Adams Wheat, Mrs. William Allen Wilbur, Mrs. Charles Edward Hill, Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, Mrs. Earl Baldwin McKinley, Mrs. William Cabell Van Vleck, Mrs. John Raymond Lapham, Mrs. William Paul Briggs, and Mrs. William Carl Ruediger. Music was provided by Strickland's orchestra.

HONORARY DEGREE TO BE CONFERRED ON DR. FREEMAN

Candidates for bachelor's and master's degrees will also receive their diplomas from the president. However, they will wear the tassels on the right side of their caps, receive their degrees, be invested with the appropriate hood by the marshal, and then shift the tassel from the right to the left side and return to their seats. The shifting of the tassels is traditional, denoting a raising of rank.

Ph. D. Degrees Awarded

Candidates for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy will be seated on the platform. Each candidate will be called forward by the Secretary of the Graduate Council, Dr. Charles E. Hill, who will read the candidate's name, thesis subject, and name of his major department. Candidates will be awarded the diploma and invested with the hood by President Marvin.

Dr. Marvin will then make a formal statement of the appointment of members of the faculty to the rank of professor emeritus. Professors A. B. Bibb, J. P. Earnest, and W. J. Humphries are to be appointed.

Freeman to Get Degree

The awarding of degrees will be concluded when the honorary degree is conferred upon Dr. Freeman. The Bishop of Washington will be introduced by Dr. Gilbert H. Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society, and a trustee of the University. President Marvin will read the citation, present the diploma, and invest him with the hood. Dr. Freeman has the distinction of being the only one in the history of the University to be awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Civil Laws.

All graduates will stand while the president delivers his charge to the graduating classes. The National Anthem will be played and Dr. Sizoo will then pronounce the benediction. The recessional march will begin, and the graduates move out, no longer students, but alumni.

Phi Sigma Kappa Wins Interfraternity Baseball Championship

All-Interfraternity Baseball Nine

First Base—Gray, Phi Sigma Kappa.
Second Base—Baldwin, Kappa Sigma.
Third Base—Ligon, Phi Sigma Kappa.
Shortstop—Wooley, Acacia.
Right Field—Bennefield, Phi Sigma Kappa.
Center Field—Sheiry, Sigma Alpha Epsilon.
Catcher—Weaver, Sigma Nu.
Pitcher—Monroe, Phi Sigma Kappa.
Pitcher—Helvestine, Acacia.

All-Interfrat Team Has Four Phi Sigs; Acacia Places Two

Sigma Nu, Delta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon Share Remaining Positions

By EVERETT WOODWARD
Phi Sigma Kappa, winner of this year's baseball championship, places four men on the 1933 edition of the mythical All-Interfraternity Baseball Nine, while two places are garnered by the runner-up Acacia. The remaining positions are shared by Sigma Nu, Delta Tau Delta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

The privilege of positioning the chosen players irrespective of their regular positions has been taken in two instances in order to give recognition to merited players. This has been done only where the position in question has no outstanding contestants. At first base is found Bob Gray, a dependable from last year, one of the main reasons for the Phi Sig infield strength. Gray garnered three of the seven hits off of Helvestine in the final to give evidence that his hitting is as good as his fielding. Lehman of Acacia, and Alfaro of D. T. D. were less steady at their positions and in this respect they fell short of the choice.

Second base has been given to Baldwin, Kappa Sigma, who was equally at home at the other infield positions. A steady fielder and strong hitter, Baldwin repeats his selection from last year.

One of the better type infielders in the series was Wooley, Acacia. Well versed in position play, Wooley was instrumental in trapping many runners off the bags, and further strengthened a claim for recognition by his strong hitting.

Selection of third base honors was divided chiefly between Ligon, Phi Sig, and Kriemelmeyer, Acacia. Both excellent fielders and steady hitters, a fair choice can be based only on consistency of play. In this respect Ligon had the edge on his rival, and so gets the nod.

Finis Parrish, Delta Tau Delta, Bennefield, Phi Sig, and Sheiry, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, are the outfield guardians for the mythical team. All strong, consistent hitters, they would provide a merited outfield for any team. Sheiry, because of his all-round play, has been placed in the outer regions in deference to his ability and the merit of another player who has been chosen for his original position. Jackson, Phi Sig, Kelto, Acacia, and McCarver showed up well in their play.

An experienced, well-styled receiver, Weaver, Sigma Nu, has the call over Keller, the hard-working Delta catcher, chiefly on the basis of his ability to control the runners on the bags. This ability was in evidence greatly in the S. A. E. game when Weaver threw out would-be base-stealers.

Monroe, chalking up five consecutive victories, was easily the outstanding pitcher of the past series. Employing a change of pace with baffling consistency, Monroe hung up an enviable strikeout record. The second choice between Helvestine, Acacia; Crouch, Sigma Nu, and Hoffman, Sigma Mu

PITCHERS OUTSTANDING

Fine Twirling Marks Extremely Well-Played Game; Gray Stars at Bat

By EVERETT WOODWARD

Too much Monroe and Gray brought about the downfall of Acacia in a thrilling extra inning battle for the interfraternity baseball championship, and enabled the defending champions, Phi Sigma Kappa, to retain their honors for the third successive year by the close score of 3-2.

Held scoreless for seven consecutive innings, and having their 2-run lead wiped away, Phi Sig took advantage of a "courtesy act" between Kriemelmeyer and Wooley when they allowed Monroe's fly to drop between them. Monroe then stole second, and advanced to third on Ligon's out. With the hit and run play on deck, Johnson hit to Wooley at short and the flying Monroe slid safely under the throw to Walker at the plate with the winning counter.

The long awaited pitching battle between Monroe and Helvestine proved to be "just like that" with both hurlers showing splendid form. Helvestine, though losing the count, held Monroe even for honors. Allowing 2 less hits and striking out 6, the Acacians' speed-ball pitcher held his opponents well in hand until his support developed a moratorium complex.

Monroe, using a change of pace, was equally brilliant, bearing down in the

Sherfy Twins Win Net Doubles Finale

Popular Colonial Pair Sensational in Fourth Victory in Five Starts

The Sherfy twins, who have been cutting quite a swath in local tennis circles this season, waited until George Washington's final match to win a crucial doubles victory. At Columbia Country Club May 26 the twins came from behind in the Delaware contest to defeat the visitors' ace combination of Babcock and Welsh, 5-7, 6-4, 9-7, breaking the deadlock between the teams and allowing the Colonial racketeers to capture their fourth victory in five matches.

Before putting on this beautiful exhibition of stamina and courage in the decisive match, the Sherfys had won only one doubles match this year. And that was against the woefully weak St. Johns outfit at Annapolis.

Handicapped by having to default a singles match and a doubles match because of conflicting examinations, the Colonials actually won five of the seven matches played. In the singles Ray Sherfy was the only G. W. entry to drop his engagement, L. Sherfy, Robinson, Smith and Moore copping their matches, each in two sets.

Ray Sherfy's singles match, which went three sets before he was downed by the hard-driving Babcock, necessitated the playing of the number 1 doubles after Moore and Busick had lost to Heppie and Lawrence in the number 2 match, allowing Delaware to knot the count at 4-4 and placed the Sherfys in the tough spot from which they extricated themselves in such brilliant fashion.

Summary

Singles
L. Sherfy (G. W.) defeated Brown, 6-1, 6-2; Babcock (Delaware) defeated R. Sherfy, 6-2, 3-6, 6-2; Robinson (G. W.) defeated Heppie, 6-1, 6-1; Smith (G. W.) defeated Walsh, 7-5, 6-2; Moore (G. W.) defeated Lawrence, 6-3, 6-2; Delaware by default.

Doubles

L. Sherfy and R. Sherfy (G. W.) defeated Babcock and Walsh, 5-7, 6-4, 9-7; Heppie and Lawrence (Delaware) defeated Moore and Busick, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4; Delaware by default.

Pittsburgh, Washington and Jefferson, Delaware, St. John's Are Vanquished; Johns Hopkins Gives Only Defeat; Rain Cuts Schedule

By JOHN BUSICK

Completing its campaign with a victory over Delaware, May 26, the George Washington net squad hangs up its rackets for another season with the successful record of four victories in five matches. Max Farrington originally planned a nine-game schedule for the Colonials, but the Duquesne date was cancelled and rain prevented matches with Lafayette and Sewanee, and a return engagement with Johns Hopkins from being played.

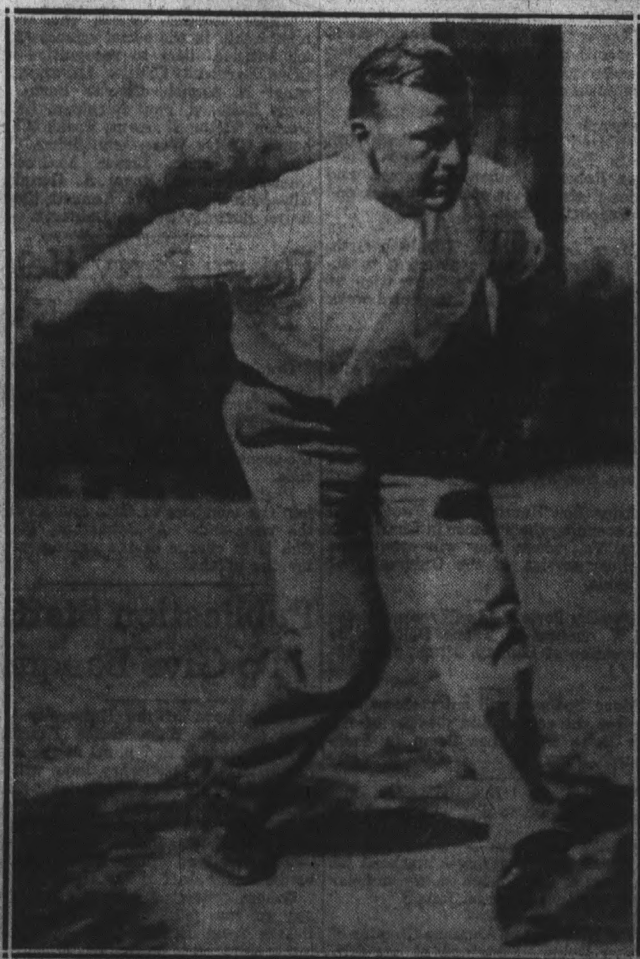

Although Farrington's men played an abbreviated schedule, their opponents with one exception, made up in quality what they lacked in numbers. The first G. W. victory ever scored over Pittsburgh, was registered in the Colonial's feature match in the Smoky City, while other outstanding triumphs were tallied over Washington and Jefferson, Delaware, and St. John's of Annapolis.

In the season's opener at Baltimore, Johns Hopkins exhibited mid-season form in handing George Washington its only defeat. The Hopkins men were in fine condition and easily outclassed the Colonials, although the latter might have evened the count if the mid-season match between the teams had been played.

The Sherfy twins, Ray and Lawrence, alternated at the No. 1 singles position and attained about equal success. Ray won his matches in the honor position against Johns Hopkins and Delaware, while Lawrence was successful at St. Johns of Annapolis. However, Randy Robinson was again the

'Swede' Christianson Is Horseshoe Champ

Finals in two of the four intramural competitions being conducted by Jean Sexton have been held, and "Swede" Christianson is now the undisputed University horseshoe champion, while Frank Rollins and Bill Banes have been crowned doubles champions in tennis. However, the final rounds in golf and tennis singles are still to be played as we go to press.

The winner on the links between L. Sherfy and Charles Kolb will receive the golf trophy, while Banes and Don Garber will battle it out in the tennis finale.

After College WHAT?

Journalism?

Thomas W. Gerber of the executive staff of the United Press says: "Seeking, reporting, interpreting and distributing news is today a complex business, an exciting profession, a responsible career. It is a field only for serious-minded, clear-thinking men and women. The day of romantic, adventurous assignments is largely over."

THERE'S no more "newspaper game." Today, it's a business—still exciting, but calling for all-round resourcefulness. That's why newspaper men agree with college men in choosing a pipe as their favorite smoke. A pipe helps a man organize his mind for clear thinking.

Why did college men choose Edgeworth as their favorite smoking tobacco? Because it's individual! A blend of fine old burleys that's different.

But the proof of the pudding is in the eating. So drop a line to Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d St., Richmond, Va., and let them send you a free sample of Edgeworth to try before you buy. You'll like it!

*A recent investigation showed Edgeworth the favorite smoke at 43 out of 54 leading colleges.

Engineers, Jr. Col. Tie for Intramural Honors in Baseball

Win Seven Games Each, Lose One; Columbian, Pre-Medics Tie Third

Due to the impossibility of arranging a playoff date, the Engineer and Junior College nines tie for the intramural championship at seven wins and one loss apiece.

Columbian and the Pre-Medics are tied for third with three victories and five defeats, while the hapless Pharmacists had an unbroken string of setbacks.

The Engineers only achieved their tie by the narrowest of margins when in their final game they barely nosed out a 5-4 victory over the never-say-die Columbians in the most exciting contest of the year.

Bovey, the diminutive Engineer second baseman, was the hero of the game when he stole home with the winning run with two out in the last inning, while Medlin, the Columbian twirler, held the ball. The latter lost a tough game as he yielded but three hits and two walks.

Junior College easily downed the Pre-Meds, 6-2, in the season's final. Tuffy Lemans granted only one hit, and that not until the last inning, while his mates got to Simon for five runs in the opening frame.

Although the Pharmacists did not furnish much opposition and were unable to finish out the season, the intramurals furnished an interesting race and much fine baseball.

There were a number of outstanding events of the year, perhaps the most noted of which was Hetzel's no-hit game against the Pharmacists early in the year.

The fielding throughout the season was very creditable, the total errors in some games often not being higher than out at the stadium. Two double plays were completed, one by the Pre-Meds and the other by the Engineers.

'Everything Against Ball Team,' Is Claim

Scribe Reviews History of New Colonial Diamonders; Coach Praised

By ROBERT P. HERZOG

It is quite the thing to do, to top off a season by reviewing the inning-by-inning description of each and every ball game. But we reiterate the Ed Wynnian "this is gonna be different." No averages, no box scores, no lambasting and no praising. Then what in h— is it to be?

It is going to be a simple reminder that we had a ball club at G. W. this year; that that ball club was hardly more than moderately successful in its undertakings. It was the first time in many years that we were represented on the diamond. Numerous groups have from time to time favored the promotion of baseball at the University, all basing their claims on the fact that baseball is a more popular sport than football and football always pays high premiums.

Finally, after several years of reconsideration, the athletic department announced that in cooperation with the National Capital Civic Fund the University would be represented by a baseball team. A proud schedule of games was arranged. Extra added attractions were planned to add to the color of the night contests. Everything was then in readiness, and the curtain lifted.

From then on the story is widely publicized. The team, left wholly on its own merit, was weak when strength was the essential element. Big crowds and an enthusiastic student body that

Fraternities Amend Current Rush Rules

Council Also Limits Athletic Participation to Exclude Auditors

Rationalization of rush rules for next year and amending the constitution to limit participation in interfraternity athletics to members who are registered for at least three hours' credit constituted the first work done by the new Interfraternity Council. This action was taken at a special meeting of the Council called at the S. A. E. house Sunday by President Gordon Sullivan.

Bill Hanback, chairman of the committee on rush rules, submitted a motion providing for the following rules to govern rushing next year:

1. An Interfraternity Smoker sponsored by the Council for all freshmen. This is not primarily a rush function but is rather a general get-together for freshmen to be held shortly after school begins.
2. A non-rushing period for the three days immediately preceding opening of school.
3. A non-rushing period for the first five days following opening of school.
4. A period of four days closed rushing to follow the non-rushing period. On each of these four days, three of the fraternities will have exclusive function rights. This will enable the prospective fraternity man to visit more of the fraternities and become better acquainted with personnel of the different chapters, and will also cut down expenses of the fraternities since rushing will be more or less concentrated.

Two Days Open Period

5. A two-day period of open rushing, to follow the four-day closed rushing period.
6. Pledging to begin at noon, Sunday, October 1.

In reviewing the action of the council on this matter it is found that there is no radical departure from the rush rules in force during this year. The freshmen interfraternity smoker and the closed dates are innovations, but the total time allowed for rushing is unchanged.

The Council formally adopted an amendment to the constitution which provides that "members shall be considered active when registered for at least three semester hours' credit." This change was made to exclude auditors from participation in interfraternity contests.

BISHOP FREEMAN DELIVERS SERMON TO SENIOR CLASS

The citation on which Bishop Freeman will receive his honorary degree will stress his life and work as interpretations of spiritual manifestations in civil relationships and as exemplars of the highest manners in which the church may elevate the civil life of the community.

Bishop Freeman was born in New York City July 24, 1866. Educated in New York public schools and later by private tutors, he began his active career at an early age as a clerk in the offices of the Long Island Railways. Promotion and advancements were rapid, and he soon occupied an important post in the legal and accounting departments of the Long Island, and later, the New York Central railroads.

Becoming active in civic and political life, Dr. Freeman earned an enviable reputation as a public speaker. His marked ability in this field, displayed during the campaign of 1888, when he championed Harrison and Morton, attracted the attention of the late Bishop C. Potter, who urged him to enter the ministry of the church. Dr. Freeman followed Bishop Potter's advice, relinquished his business connections and was ordained deacon in 1894. He married Ella Elgelius, of New York, April 19, 1890.

Loud speakers placed at strategic points throughout the yard facilitated speech conduction and made it an easier and more interesting program to follow. Nor did the program committee, headed by Evelyn Iverson, forget small, but important details, such as refreshments.

Assisting Evelyn Iverson in arranging the program were: Arthur Kriemelmeyer, Josephine Raynor, Forrest Burgess and Robert Savage.

G. W. Student-Poet Has Work Accepted

James Whitney Saunders, a student in Columbian College, has the distinction of being one of a group of ten college poets to have two of his poems accepted for the inter-collegiate Anthology. Of the 187 colleges sending entries, only 59 were accepted, and with the exception of eight or ten—each representative had one poem accepted. "To John Donne" and "Historical Viewpoints: Jazz" were the two poems winning representation for George Washington.

Dr. Borden, president of the General Alumni Association, who has been a most prominent supporter of athletics, was among the group chosen. The other 13 singled out by O. D. K. as the outstanding men in extra-curricular activities during the year were:

Combined Glee Clubs Sing at Walter Reed

Veterans' Hospital Will Be Scene of Last Appearance Thursday Evening

Walter Reed Hospital will be the scene of the final appearance of the combined University Glee Clubs. The concert is scheduled for Thursday, June 8, at 8 p. m.

Following an unusually successful season, including appearances at Loew's Fox Theatre, several medical banquets, State society dances, Homecoming, and the annual spring concert, awards will be made to two and four-year members. A gold lyre with the inscription, G. W. U., is to be presented for two years' service in the women's club, while a similar pin, jeweled, will be given to four-year members. A gold chain is the award in the men's club for two years' work, and a George Washington University ring serves for four-year members.

Those receiving the awards are as follows:

Men's awards: Four years—Samuel B. Detwiler, Jr., Carroll Hughes, Norman Morgan, and George Wells. Two years—Daniel J. Andersen, Frank C. Daniel, Jr., J. Donald Earl, Benedict Genus, Melvin J. Law, J. Craig Morris, and Edward Thomas.

For women: Four years—Marion Fowler, Grace Hall, Annabelle McCullough, and Dorothy Shaffer. Two years—Margaret Blackstone, Beatrice Colman, Stacia Donnelly, Gladys Hoffman, Betty McGowan, Adele Meriam, Miriam Pasma, Helen Sherfy, Frances Stabler, Mary Williams.

The men's club will participate in the program to be given on class night, June 6.

U. S. Commissioner of Education Appointed to Faculty Here

Dr. W. J. Cooper Appointed Member Of Education Staff

Wide Experience Will Back Teaching in Educational Administration

The appointment of Dr. William John Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, to the faculty of the School of Education, is announced by Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of the University. Dr. Cooper, whose resignation as the head of the United States Office of Education will take effect this summer, will become Professor of Education with the opening of the academic year 1933-34. He will direct courses in the field of Educational Administration, in which he has acquired national reputation. During the summer he will participate in various educational conferences which the University has scheduled in connection with its summer sessions.

Dr. Cooper is a native of California, a graduate of the University of California with the degrees of A. B. and A. M., and of the University of Southern California with the degree of Doctor of Education. Honorary degrees have been conferred upon him by many institutions, among them George Washington University, Whittier College, College of the City of Detroit, Birmingham Southern College, Lafayette College, Rhode Island State College, and New York State Teachers College.

Directed Education in California. Before becoming Commissioner of Education, in 1929, Dr. Cooper served as State Superintendent of Public Instruction and State Director of Education in California. He has taught also at Fresno State Teachers College, the University of California, and Johns Hopkins University.

While Commissioner of Education, Dr. Cooper has conducted three national education surveys, one in secondary education, one in teacher training, and one in educational financing, which will have an important bearing on the future conduct of education in this country.

During his service as Commissioner, Dr. Cooper in addition to supervising the activities of the Office of Education, has traveled widely, speaking before educational groups in 40 States.

Eleven Scholarships Created by Trustees

Four-Year Award to George Mason High, 10 One-Year, Voted at Meeting

One four-year high school scholarship and ten one-year scholarships were created by the Board of Trustees of The George Washington University at their annual meeting last Thursday afternoon at the University.

Bringing the number of four-year high school scholarships given by the University each year to eight, the newly created four-year high school award is for assignment each year to a member of the graduating class of the George Mason High School in Alexandria, Va. The other seven of these scholarships are assigned to graduates of Roosevelt, Eastern, McKinley and Western high schools of the District of Columbia; the Alexandria High School in Alexandria, Va.; the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School in Maryland; and the Washington-Lee High School in Virginia.

Only students with the highest academic qualifications and with the recommendations of their high school principals will be eligible for the one-year scholarships and preference will be given to graduates from secondary schools in Maryland, Virginia, and the District of Columbia in assigning these awards.

The game was thrillingly opened by Wooley's bare-handed catch of Stehman's Texas leaguer, and Gray's smash was almost garnered in the same manner, but Wooley's effort was nullified by an overthrow of first. Kriemelmeyer's error and Ligon's single then accounted for 2 runs. A fast double play, Elsberry to Lehman wiped out a Phi Sig threat in the second inning and the score remained 2-0 until the sixth.

Acacia was in position for a win in the seventh, due to Walker's double, but Wooley ingloriously struck out and Kriemelmeyer's roller to third allowed Walker to be caught between the bags.

O'Brien Reelected Law Alumni Head

Law Association Favors Publication of Bar Examination Statistics

The annual meeting of The George Washington University Law Alumni, held Thursday evening, June 1, in Stockton Hall, was featured by the election of officers, adoption of a resolution expressing the sentiments of the Law Association on the retirement of Professor John Paul Earnest, adoption of a resolution favoring publication of bar examination statistics so as to reveal the percentage of successful candidates from each law school in the District of Columbia, and the adoption of a new constitution.

Matthew H. O'Brien was reelected president of the Law Association. Other officers elected were: Clarence A. Miller, first vice president; Olive Geiger, second vice president; Paul E. Shorb, third vice president; and Albert E. Conrad, secretary and treasurer. The three members of the present executive committee, Vivian Simpson, H. Clay Espey, and Thomas E. Lodge, were reelected.

Earnest Resolution Passed
Colonel Walter C. Clephane presented a resolution expressing the regret of the association on the retirement of Professor John Paul Earnest. The resolution was seconded by Mrs. Etta Taggart and unanimously adopted. The resolution is as follows:

WHEREAS this Association has learned through the public prints that John Paul Earnest, Esq., for over thirty years a member of the faculty of the Law School of The George Washington University, has been forced into retirement through the application of a rigid and self-operating University ordinance fixing an age limit for such retirement; and

WHEREAS the members of this Association have observed no abatement in the mental or physical powers or energy of Mr. Earnest nor in his devotion to the work of instructing law students; and

WHEREAS those of us who have been under his tutelage have received from his clear exposition of the principles of the law a mental stimulus which has proved invaluable, and a firmly ingrained understanding of basic doctrines, and because of his genial, courteous and patient dealings with us he has been beloved to an extent greater than falls to the lot of most men; and

WHEREAS those members of this Association who have not been as fortunate as to have sustained the relationship of student under him are keenly aware of his reputation and the added prestige of the Law School due to his association with it;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Columbia-George Washington Law School Association in annual meeting assembled this first day of June, 1933, That we place upon our records this expression of our regret that the operation of an unyielding rule should deprive the University of the services of a man so richly endowed with those qualities that tend to maintain the high scholastic standards for which this University stands, and our conviction that the enforcement of the rule in the case of John Paul Earnest must tend to impair the efficiency of the work of this Law School;

Also that we take this opportunity to express to Mr. Earnest our affectionate regard and our gratitude that for so many years he has been willing to occupy a chair in that school, during all of which time he has, in a thoroughly satisfactory manner, devoted himself, heart and soul, to the welfare of those who have since become its alumni and who, looking back through the vista of the years, have been able to appreciate more and more clearly as time has elapsed, the inestimable value of his services;

And be it further resolved that the officers of this Association be and they are hereby instructed to send to the President of the University, to the Chairman of its Board of Trustees, and to Mr. Earnest copies of these resolutions.

Tribute Given
President O'Brien informed the meeting that the association had purchased a number of books which would be presented to Professor Earnest as a tribute from the Law Alumni.

H. Clay Espey presented a resolution recommending to the board of Bar Examiners of the District of Columbia that statistics be published, not including names of unsuccessful candidates for admission to the bar, but revealing the percentage of graduates of various law schools who successfully pass the examination for admission to the bar of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. Mr. Espey expressed the view that such publication gives information which should be made available to prospective law students and that the publication of such statistics will tend to promote higher standards of legal training. Colonel Clephane, a member of the District of Columbia Board of Bar Examiners, spoke in favor of the resolution, which was unanimously adopted.

Hatchet File Shows Interesting March Of Events Within Past Scholastic Year

Review Recalls Gridiron Exploits, Homecoming, Student Council Politics, Law Review, and Bartsch Expedition Among Outstanding

By LUDWIG CAMINITA
Law Review Issued
A new Law Review, issued under the auspices of our Law School, was started back in November. Subscriptions were received from 40 States and foreign countries. Germany, Brazil, American Samoa, Puerto Rico, and Alaska were among the latter. To assure a publication of merit, the Review named four legal experts to the advisory board. Charles Warren, Clyde Altscherson, James Murdock, and Lloyd Sutton were the prominent barristers named.

Nautical minds were all aflutter as the National Museum announced that Dr. Paul Bartsch would head an expedition to explore the abyssal darkness of the Puerto Rican deep. The cruise, which lasted two months, contributed important knowledge to the scientific world. Best known was the discovery of the greatest ocean depth ever recorded. Included in the scientific data and specimens obtained on the cruise, was the great variety of deep sea fish, many never seen before; others which will probably lead to the establishment of sub-species.

Not to be outdone by the preceding convocation exercises, the mid-winter convocation heard Dr. Henry Seibel Canby, one of America's foremost literary critics, deliver a eulogy of John Galsworthy. Dr. Canby's address was later published in the Saturday Review of Literature, of which he is editor. One hundred thirty-three graduates heard the address.

Weekly Talks Broadcast
And then came our big broadcast. The National Broadcasting System, through WMAL, scheduled a series of radio talks which were sponsored by the University. The first of a series of 15 weekly talks began March 30. Eighteen weekly broadcasts were scheduled, and they will continue until July. This is probably one of the few times, that a University has ever sponsored a series of talks that were given over a national hook-up.

Finally, though certainly not least, among the eight major campus events, we recall the campaign for Student Council reorganization. It all began with that big headline, "Council Hits Hatchet Press Rights," continued with the investigations, took a slight turn with the introduction of the Roberts plan of reorganization, and finally ended with the Reorganization Party sweeping into power at the April 27-28 balloting. The reorganization and Student Council fray was the liveliest political battle seen on the campus in years. More speeches, more debates, more voting than has been seen here in some time was caused by the reorganization issue.

Kindler Receives Degree
Hans Kindler was awarded the honorary degree of doctor of music, and the National Symphony Orchestra presented a concert in tribute to Haydn, at the annual fall convocation, October 13, 1933. The presentation of a symphony concert at a University convocation is unique in the United States, the program having as its only precedent two such programs by European universities. The conferring of the degree upon Dr. Kindler needs no comment; Kindler's international reputation as a virtuoso and his ability in organizing the National Symphony merited the recognition given him.

And then along came the first annual George Washington University Homecoming: A week as packed with thrills, shows, excitement, and novelty as anyone ever saw. That big "WEL-COME, ALUMNI!" issue; receptions, teas, and the Homecoming Ball; stunt night with skits, glee, and Elmer Louis Kayser as master of ceremonies; the football game with 18,000 spectators watching the 7-7 tie game between Oklahoma and the Colonials; and Homecoming completed with open house at all the fraternity haunts.

Colonia's most consistent winner in the No. 3 position. His only loss came against Johns Hopkins, when he was forced to default after the first set, due to a wrenched knee. The victories netted by Robinson were all run-off easily and quickly, his Pitt opponent alone taking Randy three sets.

Last year Robinson went through an eight-game schedule, dropping only one match and being extended to three sets to conquer only one victim. Clyde Smith, ex-Central High ace, ranked a notch below Robinson and won three of his four engagements in fine style. After falling at the almost universal Waterloo, Hopkins, Clyde reached top form quickly and won vital victories at Pitt, W. & J., and Delaware. Paired with Robinson late in the campaign in doubles, these two formed a nearly invincible combination, winning their two battles, one of which was the match-winning set to against Pitt.

Teddy Pierce, Reuben Moore, Ken Murayama and DeWitt Bennett, who comprised the remainder of the squad accounted for more than their share of victories at the end of the line-up. Letters were awarded to the following: L. Sherry, R. Sherry, Robinson, Smith, Pierce, Moore Murayama, and Manager John Busick.

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer Elected to Board of Trustees

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, president of the board of commissioners of the District of Columbia, was elected to membership on the Board of Trustees of The George Washington University at the annual meeting of the board held last Thursday afternoon at the University.

The board also reelected George Edgar Fleming as an Alumni trustee. Mr. Fleming, who has served in this capacity since 1932, is vice president and assistant trust officer of the Union Trust Company.

Noted Surgeon Again Chosen President of Group at Mayflower Meeting

Dr. Daniel LeRay Borden, one of Washington's leading surgeons, was reelected president of the General Alumni Association of The George Washington University at the annual meeting last Saturday night at the Mayflower Hotel. Other officers elected were: Vice presidents, Dr. John Howard Dellinger, Dr. Ella M. Enlows, Dr. Frederick A. Reuter, Mr. Ross Snyder, Mr. Ernest Ruebsam, Dr. Malcolm Gibbs, Miss May Paul Bradshaw, Dr. Robert McCullough. Mrs. Robert M. Stearns was reelected treasurer, and Miss Marguerite McDonaugh assistant treasurer.

Following annual reports by the officers, letters were read from George Washington University alumni clubs in various cities, including San Francisco, Milwaukee, New York, Philadelphia and Cleveland. Colonel Howard W. Hodgkins, secretary of The George Washington University Alumni Club of Chicago, was present to give his report in person.

Marvin Speaks
The alumni were addressed by Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, who told of his visits during the year to various alumni groups throughout the country.

When called upon to address the meeting, Mrs. Joshua Evans, Jr., and Mr. Stephen E. Kramer, members of the Board of Trustees, expressed satisfaction with the progress made by the University during recent times of stress.

Members of the Class of 1908 who attended the meeting gathered to observe the twenty-fifth anniversary of their graduation.

Sigma, was a hard one to decide upon. All three had a low earned-run average scored against them. Helvestine is given the nod over Crouch on the basis of their individual showing against the Phi Sig team. Hoffman gave several splendid performances on the mound; lack of support was his chief drawback for stardom.

Numerous other unmentioned players deserve praise for their playing and sportsmanlike efforts, but space not permitting, their endeavors are hereby recognized.

150 Physicians Here For Graduate Clinic.

Three-day Session of Leading Doctors, Surgeons of Alumni Closes Today

Approximately 150 members of the medical profession, many of them from out of town, assembled here Monday morning for the three-day post-graduate clinic of The George Washington University School of Medicine.

Many of Washington's leading physicians and surgeons are participating as lecturers and demonstrators in the clinics at The George Washington University Hospital, Gallinger Municipal Hospital, Garfield Memorial Hospital, Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, and St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

Monday morning registration took place at Gallinger Municipal Hospital, where the program for the day was held. Surgical, medical, obstetrical and gynecological clinics and 25 lectures and demonstrations were held throughout the day. A loud speaker was brought into use for the first time in an operating room to accommodate the large number present.

Old Grads Speak
The clinics yesterday took place at The George Washington University Medical School and Hospital. An interesting feature of the program at the subscription dinner given at the University Club last evening were brief talks by alumni representing each decade of graduating classes from 1880 to the present.

In discussing inauguration of the post-graduate clinic, which it is hoped will be made an annual event, Dr. Earl Baldwin McKinley, Dean of the School of Medicine, emphasizes that medical schools must be the fountain of new discovery in the medical sciences if teaching is to be upon the highest plane. "A school of medicine must 'make medicine' as well as teach it," Dean McKinley says. "The administrative officers and the teaching staff have long dreamed of this ideal at George Washington. Only recently has financial support made this fully possible."

Following annual reports by the officers, letters were read from George Washington University alumni clubs in various cities, including San Francisco, Milwaukee, New York, Philadelphia and Cleveland. Colonel Howard W. Hodgkins, secretary of The George Washington University Alumni Club of Chicago, was present to give his report in person.

Marvin Speaks
The alumni were addressed by Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, who told of his visits during the year to various alumni groups throughout the country.

When called upon to address the meeting, Mrs. Joshua Evans, Jr., and Mr. Stephen E. Kramer, members of the Board of Trustees, expressed satisfaction with the progress made by the University during recent times of stress.

Members of the Class of 1908 who attended the meeting gathered to observe the twenty-fifth anniversary of their graduation.

Colonia's most consistent winner in the No. 3 position. His only loss came against Johns Hopkins, when he was forced to default after the first set, due to a wrenched knee. The victories netted by Robinson were all run-off easily and quickly, his Pitt opponent alone taking Randy three sets.

Last year Robinson went through an eight-game schedule, dropping only one match and being extended to three sets to conquer only one victim.

Clyde Smith, ex-Central High ace, ranked a notch below Robinson and won three of his four engagements in fine style. After falling at the almost universal Waterloo, Hopkins, Clyde reached top form quickly and won vital victories at Pitt, W. & J., and Delaware. Paired with Robinson late in the campaign in doubles, these two formed a nearly invincible combination, winning their two battles, one of which was the match-winning set to against Pitt.

Teddy Pierce, Reuben Moore, Ken Murayama and DeWitt Bennett, who comprised the remainder of the squad accounted for more than their share of victories at the end of the line-up. Letters were awarded to the following: L. Sherry, R. Sherry, Robinson, Smith, Pierce, Moore Murayama, and Manager John Busick.
